

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

Everyday Speech ACTIVITIES

Interactive Worksheet: Working with a Group

Class activities often require that we work cooperatively with other students. This means we must communicate and plan with other people. Everyone has to make decisions together.

GROUP PROBLEM

Two people want to be the group leader. How do you decide who the best leader is?

The project is very complicated. The group is not sure where to start and what the steps are.

There are more steps in the project than members. Each person already has one job.

The group cannot decide on a time to work on the project together after school.

Two group members do not like each other. Everyone is feeling uncomfortable.

GROUP DECISION

You can take a group vote or the job of the leader can be shared.

The group must pick a time that most of the people can get together. They must share all the work on their group email, too.

The group can talk with each other and try to get along or they can share the problem with the teacher.

Group members have to agree to do more than one job.

The group has to list out all the steps they can think of and put them in order. Then everyone can decide which tasks to complete.

Draw an arrow to match a box on the left with a box on the right